It seems to me that the phone companies should be regulated and should offer independent ISPs deals equivalent to their own internal costs. That way consumers will have choices as to which company offers the best features for the best prices.

thank you